DETAILED ACTION

Status of Claims

1. Claims 1-8, 15 and 21 have been examined.
2. Claim 26 have been canceled by the applicant.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 02/20/2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant is of the opinion that prior art fails to teach "any adding device that adds these two different types of copy control information to an information signal". The Examiner respectfully disagrees.
4. Muratani discloses the electronic digital content such as sounds, music, movie etc. In order to protect the copyright of the digital content, various electronic watermark methods are used. Muratani also discloses embedding an electronic watermark within the digital content (See column 1, lines 26-39). An electronic device (i.e. adding device) has to require for embedding an electronic watermark within the digital content. Therefore, Muratani inherently teach the adding device or electronic device for embedding the watermark. Therefore, The Examiner maintains the rejection to applicant claims.

In addition functional recitation(s) using the word "which adds" and "which changes" have been considered but is given little patentable weight because they fail to add any structural limitations and are thereby regarded as intended use language. A recitation of the intended use of the claimed product must result in a structural difference between the claimed product and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed product from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it reads on the claimed limitation. In re Casey, 370 F.2d 576, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) ("The manner or method in which such machine is to be utilized is not germane to the issue of patentability of the machine itself."); In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). See also MPEP §§ 2114 and 2115.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

5. Claims 15 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.
6. With respect to claim 15, Based on Supreme Court precedent (See also Diamond v. Diehr, 450 U.S. 175, 184 (1981); Parker v. Flook, 437 U.S. 584, 588 n.9 (1978); Gottschalk v. Benson, 409 U.S. 63, 70 (1972); Cochrane v. Deener, 94 U.S. 780, 787-88 (1876)) and recent Federal Circuit decisions, a §101 process must (1) be tied to another statutory class (such as a particular apparatus) or (2) transform underlying subject matter (such as an article or materials) to a different state or thing. In addition, the tie to a particular apparatus, for example, cannot be mere extra-solution activity. See In re Bilski, 88 USPQ2d 1385 (Fed. Cir. 2008).

An example of a method claim that would not qualify as a statutory process would be a claim that recited purely mental steps.

To meet prong (1), the method step should positively recite the other statutory class (the thing or product) to which it is tied. This may be accomplished by having the claim positively recite the machine that accomplishes the method steps. Alternatively or to meet prong (2), the method step should positively recite identifying the material that is being changed to a different state or positively recite the subject matter that is being transformed.

7. Claim 21 is directed to an information generating program. However, this is merely software, and it has been held that software without a required computer-readable medium-storing software that, when executed, causes the computer to perform a particular process or method (MPEP 2106.01) is merely nonfunctional descriptive material and non-statutory under 35 U.S.C. 101.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claims 1-8, 15, 21 and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Muratani (US 6804375).

9. With respect to claims 1, 8, 15 and 21, Muratani discloses: embedding the watermark with in digital content (i.e. signal). Watermark includes information like rights information, copy control information; use condition information (See column 1, lines 32-40). Muratani does not explicitly disclose change copy control information and copy control information. However, adding any kind of information such as change control information and control information to the watermark is a predictable result to having watermark that includes information like rights information, copy control information, use condition information, etc. (KSR International Co. v. Teleflex Inc., 82 USPQ2d 1385 (U.S. 2007)).
- In addition functional recitation(s) using the word "which adds" and "which changes" have been considered but is given little patentable weight because they fail to add any structural limitations and are thereby regarded as intended use language. A recitation of the intended use of the claimed product must result in a structural difference between the claimed product and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed product from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it reads on the claimed limitation. In re Casey, 370 F.2d 576, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) ("The manner or method in which such machine is to be utilized is not germane to the issue of patentability of the machine itself."); In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). See also MPEP §§ 2114 and 2115.
10. With respect to claims 2-6, each is describing the changing operation. The changing operation is not the part of apparatus. It is the part of intended use of the apparatus. Therefore, it has been held While features of an apparatus may be recited either structurally or functionally, claims directed to an apparatus must be distinguished from the prior art in terms of structure rather than function alone -MPEP 2114; In re Swineheart, 169 USPQ 226; In re Schreiber, 44 USPQ2d 1429 (Fed. Cir. 1997).

11. With respect to claims 3 and 7 each is directed to stored data. However, as the stored data does not functionally related to the memory in which it is stored it does not distinguish the claimed apparatus, method, and system from the prior art (In re Gulack, 217 USPQ 401 (Fed. Cir. 1983), In re Ngai, 70 USPQ2d (Fed. Cir. 2004), In re Lowry, 32 USPQ2d 1031 (Fed. Cir. 1994); MPEP 2106.01)

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
